OPENING LETTER

A new sale at your registers.

Dear Harbor Freight Merchandising Team,

Your customers come in for tools, and they also have birthdays, friends to thank and holidays to celebrate. The New Tradition gives them an easy extra purchase right at the register: bright, funny greeting cards created for DIYers, mechanics, welders and weekend builders.

A tool chest that is really a “collection.” A friend who always lifts you up, like a good floor jack. Three hammers, because the other two went missing. These are moments your customers know well and will enjoy sharing.

We propose twenty-four designs in two 12-pocket card panels mounted at eye level on the shelving that lines your checkout queue, one panel on each side, facing the customers waiting in line. Side A holds our launch twelve. Side B holds twelve more from a deep bench of thirty-five designs, every one made for your customers; the other twenty-three rotate in by season. For merchandising, it is a new category with about 50% margin ($3.45 profit on every $6.95 card), placed where every buyer stands and waits. For your stores, it needs no new floor fixture and leaves the walkway clear. For your store teams, it is easy: about 8 cards per pocket and simple reordering by design code.

We start with a launch order: 192 cards (24 designs x 8 each), and we include both display panels free. The twelve Side A designs are shown on their own pages at actual size, followed by the Side B designs and the rest of the deep bench, grouped by occasion.

I will personally handle your account. And the fastest way to reach me is Brian@MelonGlowBooks.com.

Warm regards,

Brian Carey

THE NEW TRADITION FOR HARBOR FREIGHT

Cards for the tool lifestyle.

The card aisle is full of flowers, balloons and pastel watercolors. The people who live in their garages, build their own furniture, weld, wrench and collect tools have been largely overlooked.

Every design in this collection speaks their language: socket sets, floor jacks, tool chests, welding tables and workbenches. These are cards your customers will see themselves in, sold in the one store that already understands them.

THE OPPORTUNITY IN NUMBERS

No new fixtures. Every buyer sees it.

THE RETAIL OPPORTUNITY

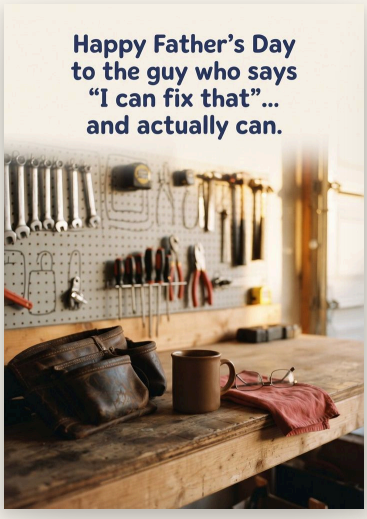

The only card in the building.

Every visit ends at the register. A greeting card is one of the easiest impulse purchases in retail: a low price, an occasion the shopper already has in mind, and a decision made in seconds.

Your customers already buy cards, just somewhere else. Today they make a separate stop at a drugstore or supermarket. The New Tradition lets them pick one up in the store they are already in, with a card that speaks their language.

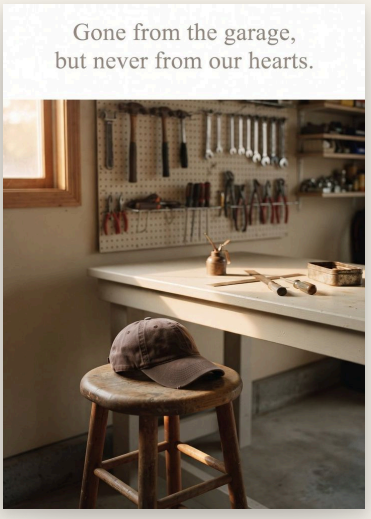

No competing rack. In a card aisle, a design is one of thousands. At a Harbor Freight register, it is the only card in the building, and every design was written for the people standing in line.

Built for the gift seasons. Father's Day, Christmas and graduation are when tools are already on the shopping list. Seasonal designs rotate into the display so the card goes in the same bag as the gift.

THE CARD STATION

Twenty-four designs. Both sides of the line.

Two 12-pocket card panels mount at eye level on the shelving that lines the checkout queue, one on each side, facing the customers waiting. Whichever way a customer faces, there are twelve cards in front of them.

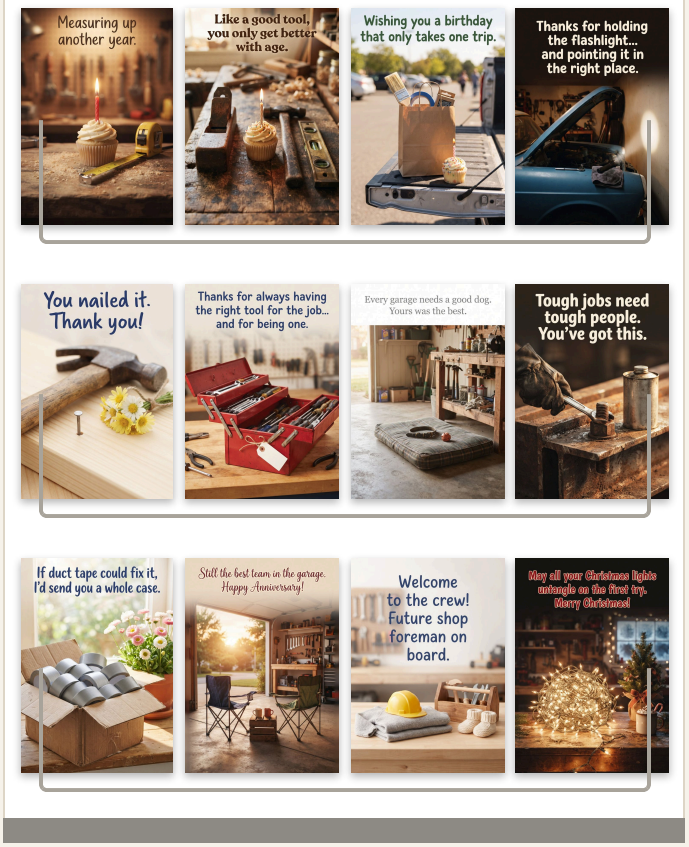

Side A

The launch twelve

Side B

Twelve more from the deep bench

NO NEW FIXTURE

Mounts on existing queue shelving. The walkway stays clear.

INCLUDED FREE

We include both display panels free with the 192-card launch order.

EASY FOR STORE TEAMS

About 8 cards per pocket. Reorder by design code.

ALWAYS FRESH

Twenty-three more designs rotate in by season.

YOUR CHECKOUT LINE, TODAY

Every store already has the spot.

Photographed at a Harbor Freight store in Santa Rosa, California. One register, one long single-file line, merchandised shelving alongside. Every customer who buys something passes this shelf, and most stand beside it while they wait.

THE PROPOSAL

Two 12-pocket card panels at eye level, one on each side of the queue, facing the line. No new floor fixture, no change to the walkway, and every customer in line sees them.

OPTION FOR LARGER STORES

Or one end cap. Twenty-four cards, one spot.

Where the queue shelving is already full, the same twenty-four designs fit a single end cap facing the checkout line: a 24-pocket card panel on the end of a gondola, with a header sign customers can read from the register.

SAME LAUNCH, SAME CARDS

The Launch 12 and Side B, 192 cards in all. Only the fixture changes.

SEEN FROM THE WHOLE LINE

An end cap faces the queue, so every customer sees it while waiting.

INCLUDED FREE

We include the end cap panel free with the launch order, in place of the two queue panels.

YOUR CHOICE BY STORE

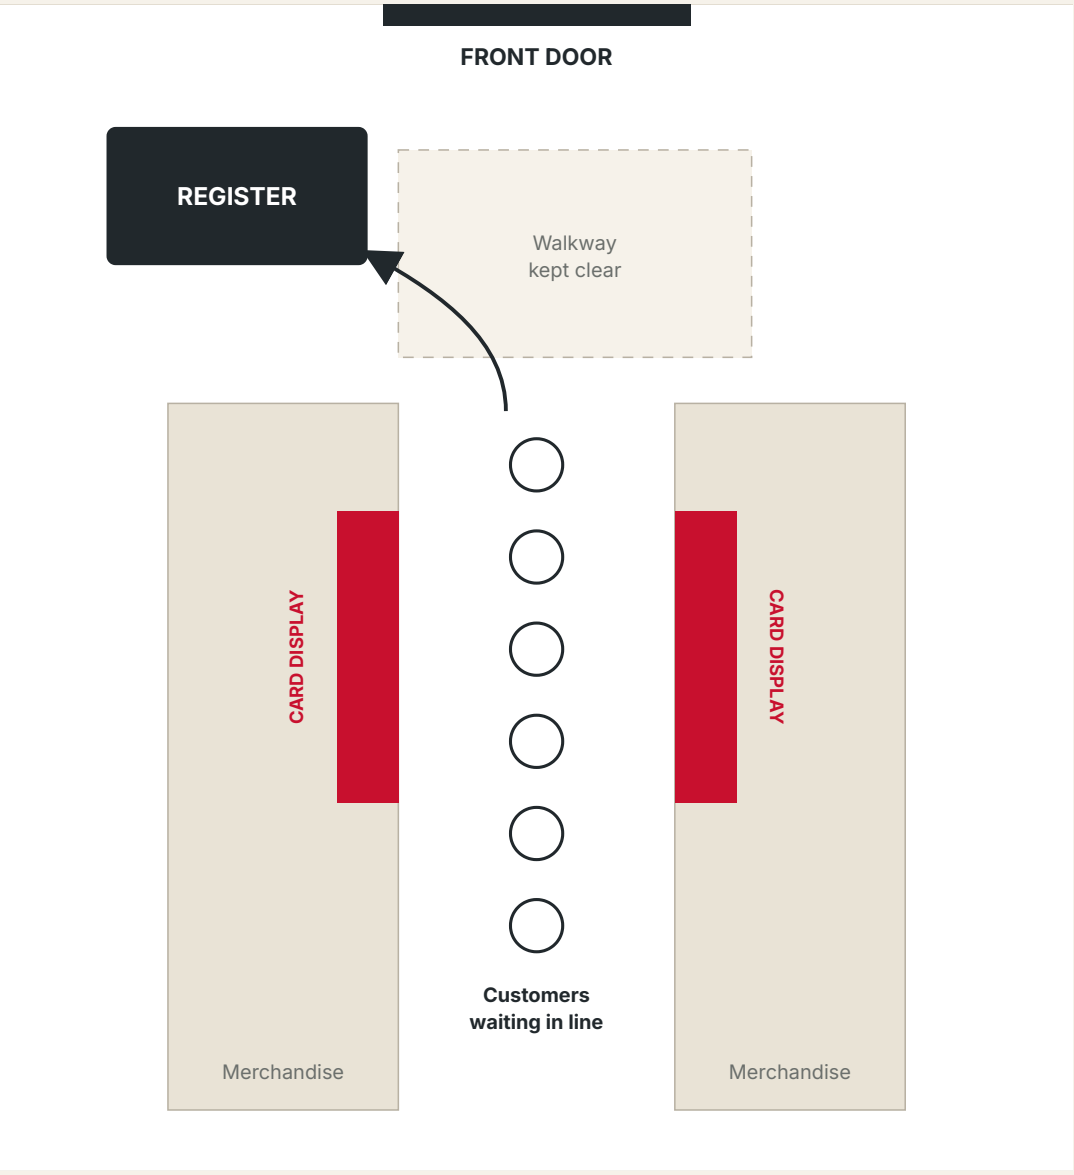

Queue panels where the shelving allows, an end cap where it doesn't. Sales are tracked by design code either way.

Illustration: the 24 launch designs on a single end-cap card panel.

HOW IT FITS

Turns waiting time into selling time.

Every Harbor Freight follows the same pattern: one register near the front door, a clear walkway in front of it, and a single-file line waiting between two runs of merchandise.

Simplified plan, not to scale.

THE CARD DISPLAY

Two 12-pocket panels at eye level, one on each side of the line, with cards facing the people waiting.

NO NEW FLOOR FIXTURE

The walkway and the line stay exactly as they are.

SEEN BY EVERY BUYER

Everyone who checks out stands beside it while they wait.

EASY TO RESTOCK

Store teams already maintain this shelving.

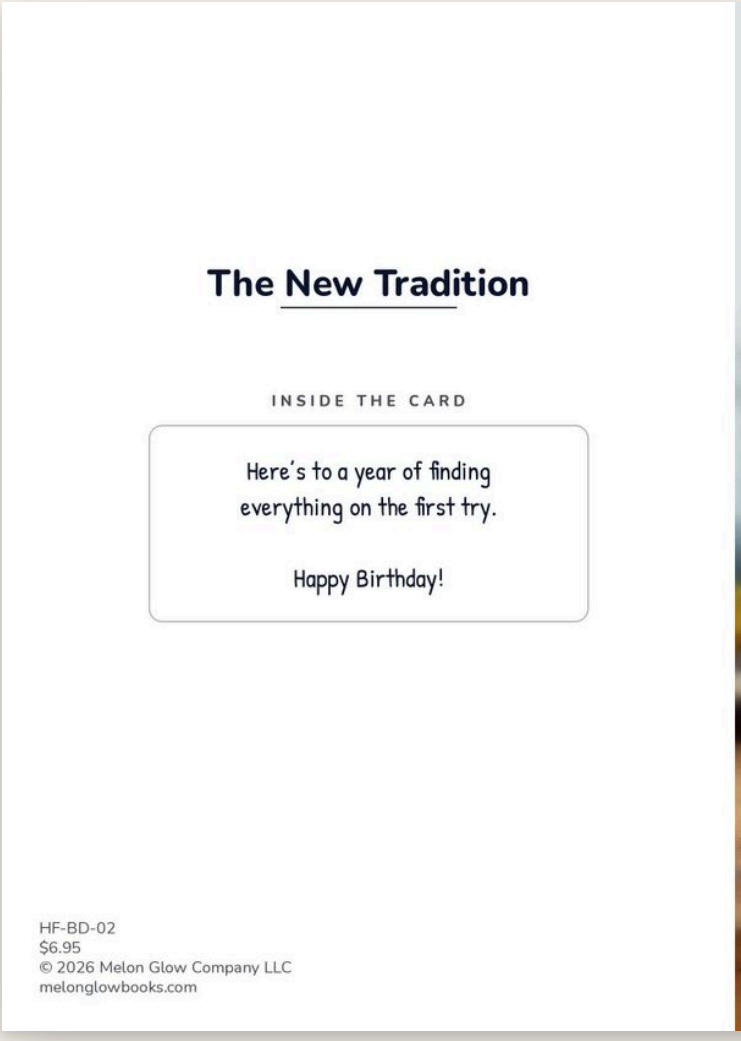

A BETTER WAIT

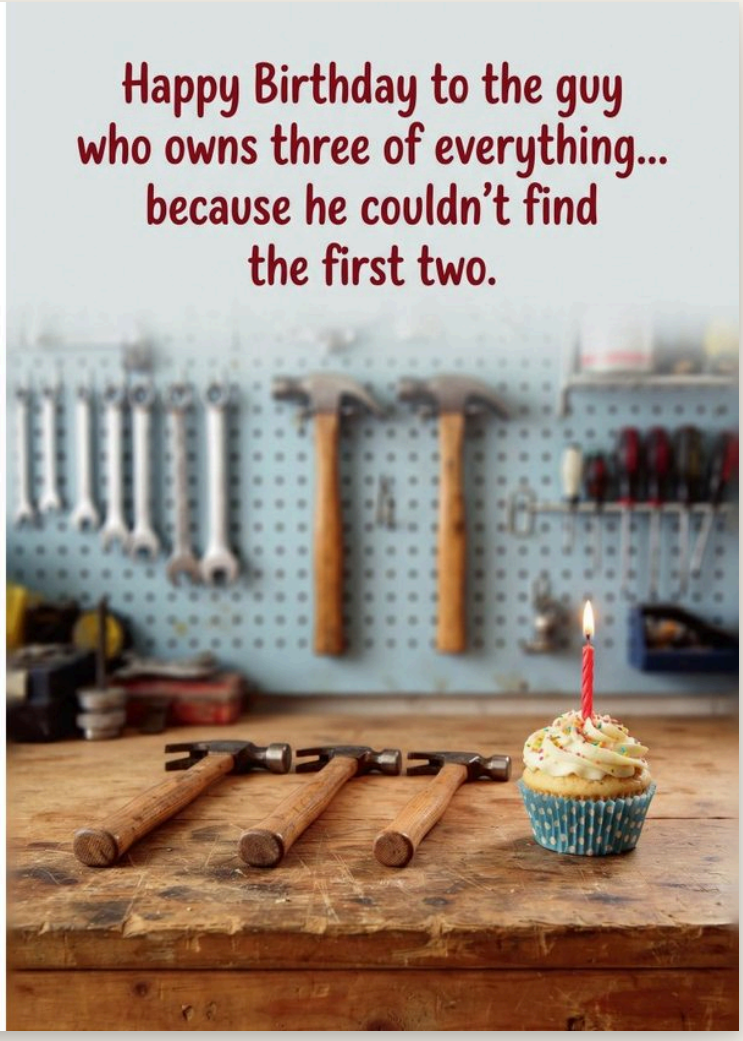

A few funny cards to flip through make the wait in line more enjoyable, and customers reach the register in a better mood.

MADE TO SELL IN A SEALED SLEEVE

The front makes them laugh. The back closes the sale.

Every card ships sealed in a clear sleeve. So the hook is always on the front, and the full inside message is printed on the back, where shoppers can read it through the sleeve before they buy.

Back panel: collection name, the inside message, design code and suggested retail. Every card is assigned a GS1 UPC for retail programs.

Front panel: full-color photographic art with the joke or sentiment, readable from across the counter.

Per year, 100 stores	$358,800

Figures are shown at 20 cards a week per store. Every store report tracks sell-through by design and by store, so the best sellers stay stocked.

THE LAUNCH ORDER

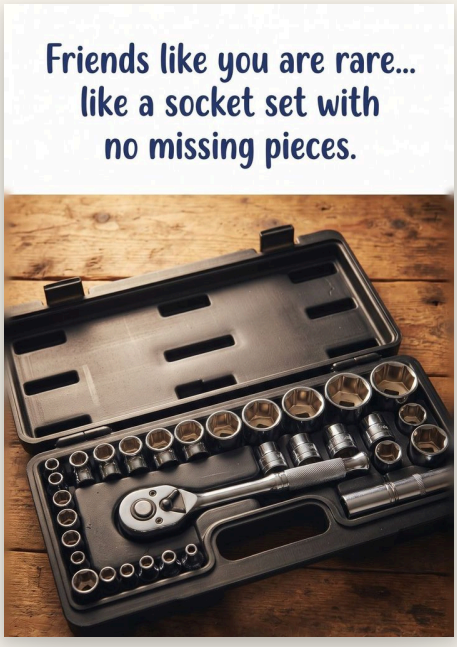

A focused starting assortment.

Twenty-four designs customers recognize at a glance. Seven birthday designs, because birthday is the best-selling card occasion, plus thank-you greetings, friendship, get well, sympathy, encouragement, a wedding, an anniversary, love, a new baby, Father's Day and two in-season Christmas cards.

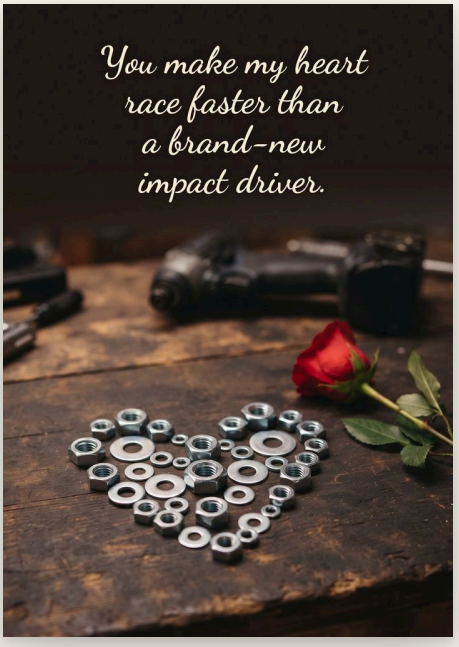

The launch order: 192 cards (24 designs x 8 each). We include both display panels free, one for each side of the checkout line.

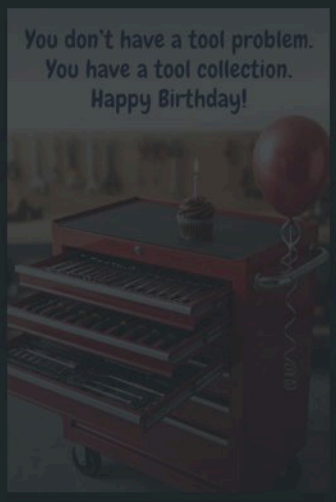

Launch in your selected stores, then review sales by design and feedback from your store teams. Reorder the best sellers and refresh the seasonal mix from the deep bench.

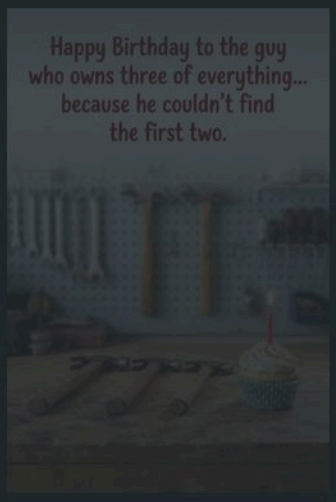

Side A, the launch twelve, follows one design per page. Side B is marked in the deep bench. We will finalize the launch mix with your buyer.
