OPENING LETTER

Two places your customers already stop. One new sale.

Dear Lowe's Merchandising Team,

Women buy about 80% of all greeting cards, and they are the majority of garden center shoppers. Today, when a Lowe's customer picks up a hanging basket for Mother's Day or a rosebush for a friend, she has to make another stop somewhere else to buy the card. The New Tradition puts the card right there with the plant.

We propose two displays. A floor card spinner in the garden center carries twenty-four designs written for gardeners: birthdays in full bloom, thank-you cards for helping me grow, sympathy for the loss of a gardener, and a Mother's Day card for the one who taught me how to grow. A slotted card panel in the checkout lane, beside the candy and snacks, carries twelve funny cards for DIYers and tool lovers, made for the customer standing in line.

For merchandising, it is a new category with about 50% margin ($3.45 profit on every $6.95 card). For your stores, both displays are simple: about 10 cards per pocket, and reorders by design code. Every card ships sealed in a clear sleeve, with the inside message printed on the back so shoppers can read it before they buy. No brands or logos appear on any card.

We start with a launch order: 360 cards (36 designs x 10 each), and we include both displays free. The pages that follow show the plan, the economics and every design.

I will personally handle your account. And the fastest way to reach me is Brian@MelonGlowBooks.com.

Warm regards,

Brian Carey

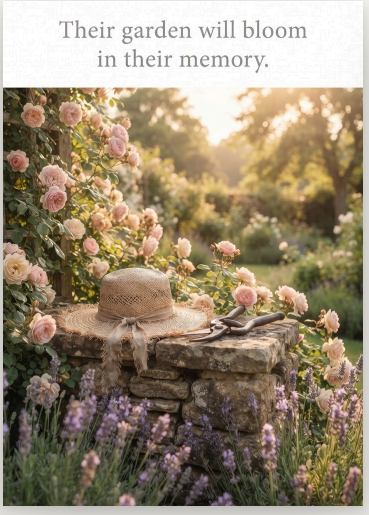
WHO BUYS GREETING CARDS

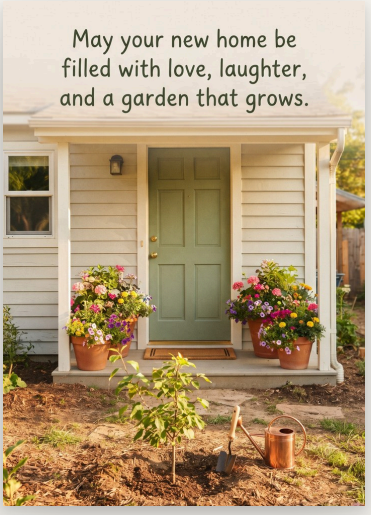
She is already in the garden center.

The card buyer and the garden center shopper are the same person. Women buy about four out of every five greeting cards, and they make up most of the customers in a garden center. A card spinner among the flowers puts the product in front of the shopper most likely to buy it.

Plants are gifts, and gifts need cards. A hanging basket for Mother's Day, a rosebush for a new home, a peace lily for a sympathy visit, a poinsettia for the holidays. Every one of those purchases is a card occasion, and today the card is bought somewhere else.

Cards written for gardeners. The card aisle is full of generic flowers. These cards speak to people who actually grow them: good soil and just enough rain, weeds that can wait, a love that grows faster than the weeds.

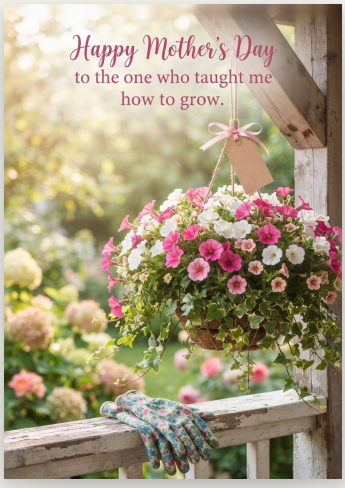




THE GIFT AND THE CARD, IN ONE STOP

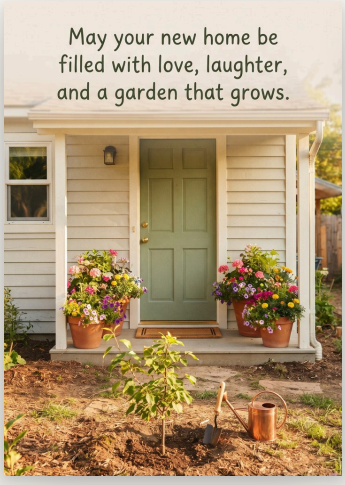
Your customers are already buying the gift.

A greeting card is one of the easiest impulse buys in retail: a low price, an occasion already on the shopper's mind, and a decision made in seconds. In a Lowe's garden center, the gift is already in the cart. The only thing missing is the card.



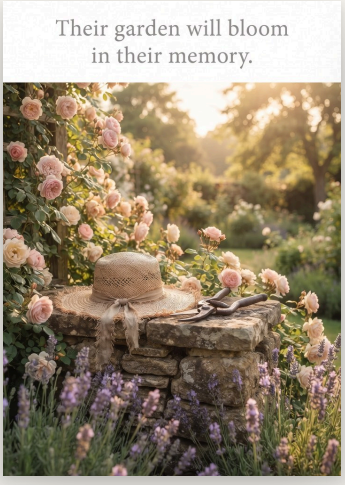
A hanging basket for Mother's Day

The garden center's busiest gift week. The card goes in the cart with the basket.



A rosebush for a new home

New homeowners buy plants, tools and a housewarming gift. One stop.



A peace lily for a sympathy visit

A plant is a common sympathy gift. The right card is a quiet kindness.

A poinsettia at Christmas

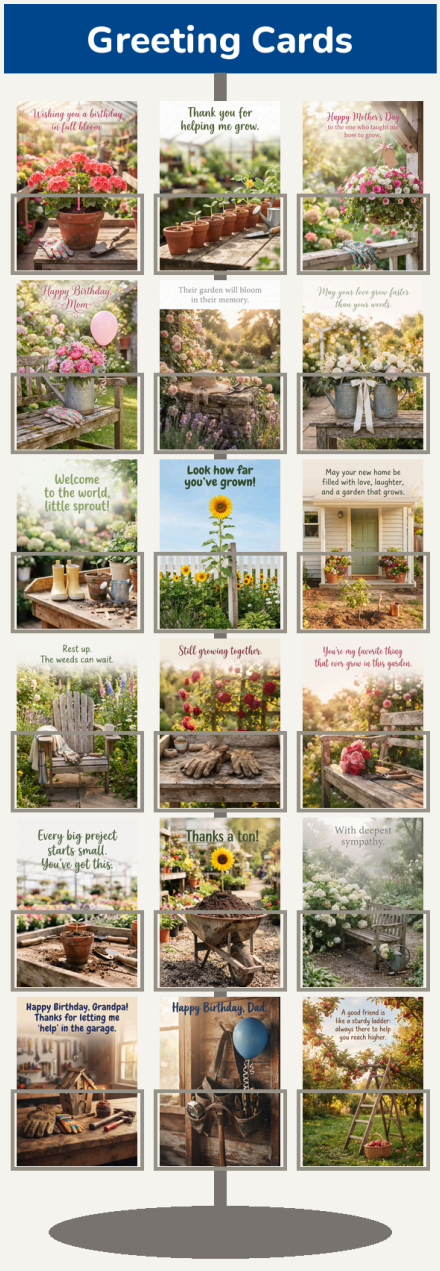
Holiday plants are bought as gifts. The card turns a plant into a present.

No competing rack. In a card aisle, a design is one of thousands. At Lowe's, it is the only card in the building, and every design was written for the people standing there.

THE TWO-DISPLAY PLAN

One for the garden center. One for the checkout lane.

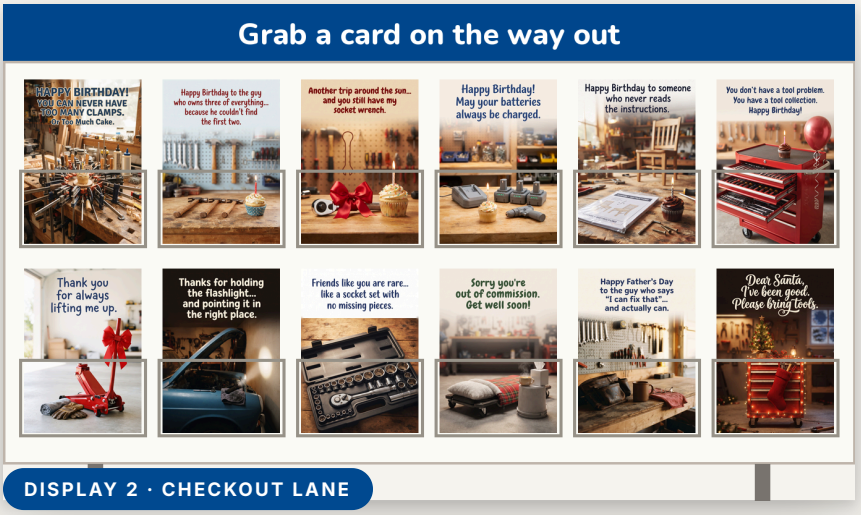
Each display carries the cards that fit the shopper in front of it. We include both free with the launch order.



DISPLAY 1 · GARDEN CENTER

Floor card spinner, 24 pockets

Stands beside the garden center register or among the gift plants. Twenty-four designs led by garden art: birthdays, Mom, thank-you, sympathy, weddings, babies and new homes.



DISPLAY 2 · CHECKOUT LANE

Slotted card panel, 12 pockets

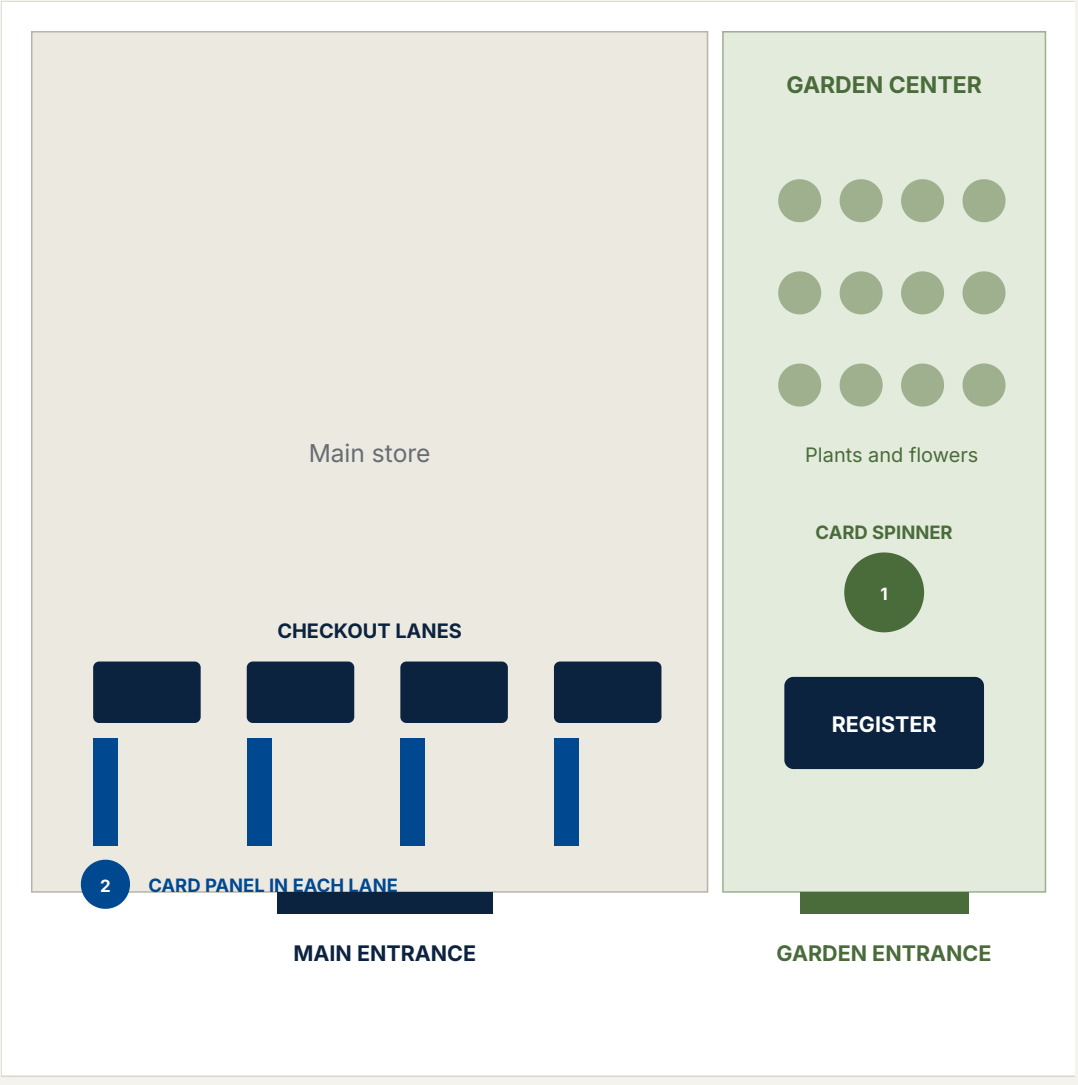
Fits beside the candy and snacks in the checkout lane. Twelve funny cards for DIYers and tool lovers: a quick, easy add-on for the customer waiting to pay.

Illustrations of the launch assortment. Both displays hold about 10 cards per pocket.

WHERE THEY GO

The two busiest places a shopper stops.

The garden center register and the front-end checkout are where customers stand still. A card display at each one turns that pause into a sale.



1 · GARDEN CENTER

A floor spinner near the garden register, where gift plants are bought and the card buyer already shops.

2 · CHECKOUT LANE

A slim slotted panel beside the candy and snacks, where every customer waits.

SMALL FOOTPRINT

The spinner takes about two feet of floor. The panel fits in existing impulse space.

EASY TO RESTOCK

About 10 cards per pocket. Store teams reorder by the design code on each pocket.

Simplified plan, not to scale. Exact placement to be agreed with your store operations team.

DISPLAY 1 · GARDEN CENTER

Twenty-four cards for the garden center.

Garden art leads, for the shopper buying flowers as a gift. A few family favorites round it out: Dad's birthday, Grandpa's helper, a little builder and a sturdy-ladder friendship card. The Christmas card is in season now; Mother's Day moves to the front in spring.

DISPLAY 2 · CHECKOUT LANE

Twelve cards for the checkout lane.

Short, funny and readable in a few seconds, for the customer waiting to pay. Six birthday designs, because birthday is the best-selling card occasion, plus thank-you, friendship, get well, Father's Day and Christmas.

AN IMPULSE BUY

A low price and an occasion already on the shopper's mind. A decision made in seconds.

A BETTER WAIT

A funny card to read makes the wait in line more enjoyable.

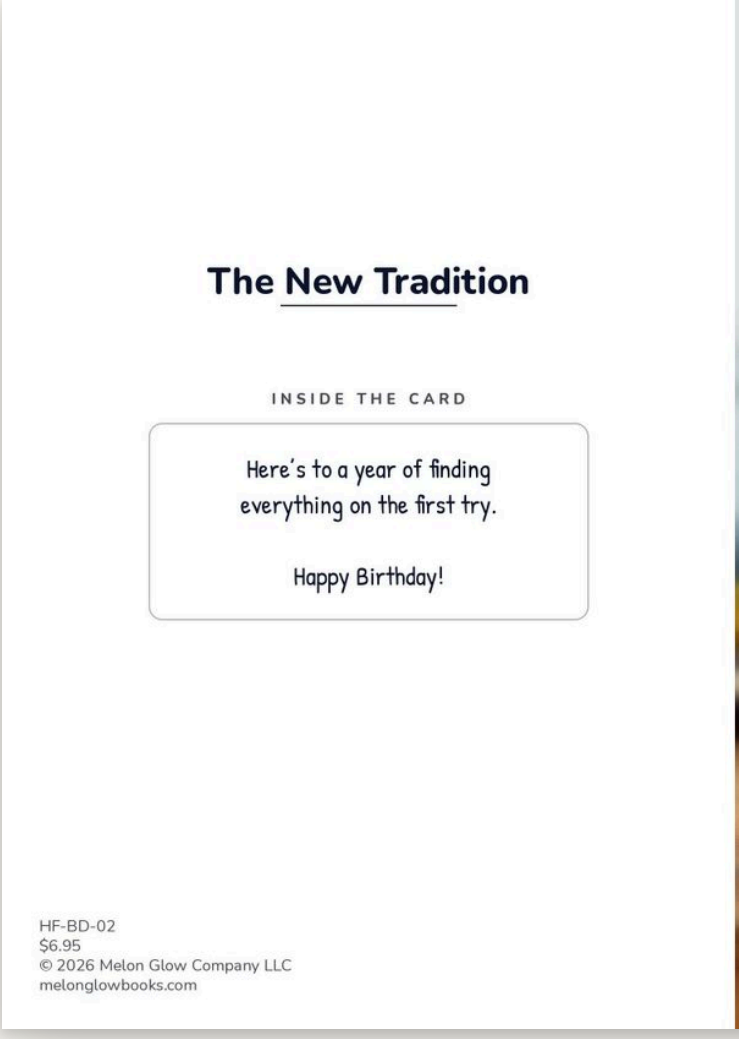
SPEAKS TO THE PRO AND THE DIYER

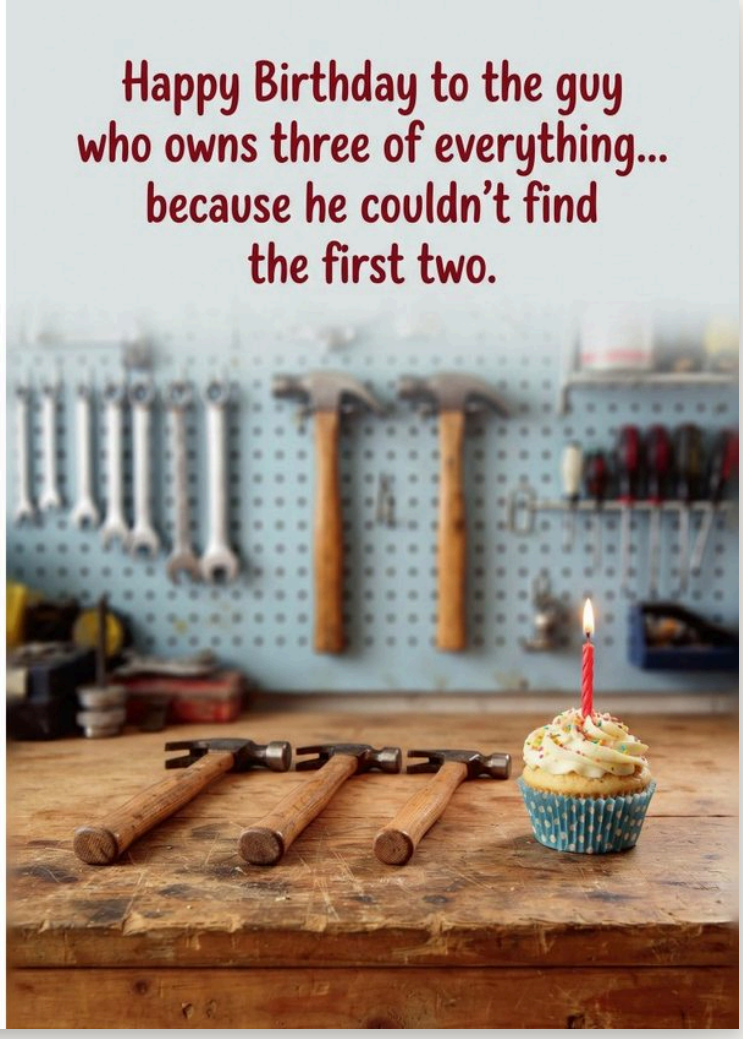
Clamps, socket wrenches, floor jacks and batteries. Cards the tool crowd will see themselves in.

MADE TO SELL IN A SEALED SLEEVE

The front catches the eye. The back closes the sale.

Every card ships sealed in a clear sleeve. The joke or sentiment is always on the front, and the full inside message is printed on the back, where shoppers can read it through the sleeve before they buy.





Back panel: collection name, the inside message, design code and suggested retail. Every card is assigned a GS1 UPC for retail programs.

Front panel: full-color photographic art with the message, readable from across the aisle.

STORE ECONOMICS

What the two displays earn.

LAUNCH ORDER, PER STORE	AMOUNT
360 cards at $3.50 wholesale (36 designs x 10)	$1,260.00
360 cards at $6.95 suggested retail	$2,502.00
Gross profit when the launch order sells through	$1,242.00
Garden center floor spinner (24 pockets)	Included free
Checkout lane card panel (12 pockets)	Included free

ILLUSTRATION: A STORE SELLING 20 CARDS A WEEK	GROSS PROFIT
Per week (20 x $3.45)	$69
Per year, one store	$3,588
Per year, 100 stores	$358,800
Per year, all 1,759 stores	$6.3 million

Figures are shown at 20 cards a week per store. Every store report tracks sell-through by design, by display and by store, so the best sellers stay stocked.

THE LAUNCH ORDER

Two displays. One strong launch.

The launch order: 360 cards (36 designs x 10 each), and we include both displays free. Twenty-four designs fill the garden center spinner and twelve fill the checkout lane panel.

Two questions answered at once. How well do cards sell among the flowers, and how well do they sell at checkout? Every card carries a design code, so sales can be read by design and by display.

Built around the garden season. A spring start catches Mother's Day, the garden center's busiest weekend, followed by graduations, weddings and Father's Day.

The mix can be adjusted for each store or region. We will finalize the launch assortment with your buyer.

THE NEXT CONVERSATION

Samples are ready for your team.

To start, tell us what you think. Send us your favorite designs, the occasions your customers buy for, and feedback from your garden center and front-end teams.

Then we agree on a launch assortment and open in selected stores: 360 cards (36 designs x 10 each), and we include the garden center spinner and the checkout lane panel free.

The goal: cards your customers enjoy buying, a new sale in two places they already stop, and an arrangement that works for both of us.

We will send printed samples right away.

I will personally handle your account. And the fastest way to reach me is Brian@MelonGlowBooks.com.
