Rumble. Rumble. Rumble.

Then it came. Not a car.

A house on four wheels.

The tyre was taller than Pepper.

It smelled of rain and far away.

The door opened.

Warm light. A soft bed.

And on the bed, a nose.

"I'm Biscuit."

Pepper put one paw on the step.

Then the other.

"Room for one more."

Pepper hopped up.

Six inches off the ground.

And the road was ready.
